

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a connector device suitable for connecting an enteral administration set to a laminated paper packaging system comprising enterally administrable
5 medical or nutritional food.